

DNA-Interdimensionality

Western Science recognizes, on one hand, that the human DNA has 12 so-called strings and that approx. 10 percent of the DNA are mainly used to build proteins – but the rest is identified as “junk”. For this reason, only these 10 percent are researched and worked with (or manipulated).

The Russian gene researchers, however, do not consider nature as that stupid and therefore have dealt with these other 90 percent, together with linguists. They have discovered things that on one hand at revolutionary, on the other hand can scientifically proof phenomena which by Western established science still are ignored as unexplainable or phantasies. So, according to the Russians, our DNA is not only responsible to build our body, but also serves as an information storage and for communication. For example, Russian linguists have found out, that the genetic code, specially in the 90 "useless" percent, follows the same rules of all human languages. They can proof that the human language did not come into just by coincidence, but that it corresponds with the structure of our DNA.

The Russian molucelar-biologist and bio-physicist Pjotr Garajev and his colleagues researched also the vibrational attitude of DNA and concluded: living chromosomes work as solitonic-holographic computers using endogene DNA radiation. This means, that, e.g. one can impose frequency patterns to a laser-ray and by this influence one-self the information of the DNA waves and thus the genetic information.

Also, it was experimentally proofed that living DNA substance (i.e. in living tissues, not in vitro) reacts to language imposed laser-light and even to radio waves, if one keeps to the correct resonance frequencies.

This proofs, on a scientific basis, why affirmations; auto-suggestion, hypnosis etc. can have each such a strong impact on the human and the body. It seems quite normal and arranged by nature that our DNA reacts to language.

Obviously, am DNA is also an organic supra-conductor which can work at a normal body function (artificially produced supra-conductors need extreme minus temperature of -200 to -140 degrees Celsius in order to be able to function. All supra conductors (as known today) are able to store light and thus information. This is another explanation how DNA manages to store information ...

(This is a translation from German. Source: Book "Vernetzte Intelligenz" by Graziana Fosar and Franz Bludorf. ISBN 3930243237)

* * *

Dr. Todd Ovokaitys (USA) has discovered a certain DNA effect which has to do with the genuine and self-triggering nature of DNA and of which the activation will be bigger/larger that the sum of the parts of the activation (a kind of remembering the ancient temples of rejuvenation and healing in Lemuria).